

Reader Quote: What a fun book with great quirky, loveable characters. FUN, FUN, FUN! Do you love to laugh? If you said yes, then dont miss Faylene McFarland, a fifty something, single woman who owns the only car wash in High Plains, Texas. Her mothers best friend Iris made a deathbed promise to help find Faylene a husband, and she takes her vow very seriously. Faylene has little time for romance; instead she spends a lot of time squelching ridiculous rumors generated by the High Plains grapevine. As a favor to Iris, and because she is a kind hearted person, she helps breathe new life into Iriss dying off beat ladies club. High Plains biggest and most exciting event, The Catfish Festival, becomes even more exciting when handsome Mike Chapman comes to town. Come along with Faylene to see if she can reel in her biggest catch yet. Note from the author: I hope you enjoy reading about the fictional town of High Plains. Itâ€™s small town living at its finest, and at times, at its craziest, all from a Christian perspective. This is the newly formatted version offered to enhance your reading experience, so grab your favorite beverage and read along with me. And dont forget to check out book two in this series, Faylene Sees a Pig. When youre finished reading, lets meet at Tooties for some friendship and laughter. Lunch is on me.
