

View the Normative-Reeducative behavioral monotype group as defined by Pamoga LLC. See its key representatives, their behavioral reactions using the OCEAN model, the political power each exercises, and the approach that can be taken to defuse or leverage such power to the benefit of the business. This Case Study in Pamoga LLCs Case Study series examines:

- A brief summary of Normative-Reeducative behavioral group drivers
- The four key representative characters that belong to the Normative-Reeducative group, along with their mantras and common identifying actions
- Their behavioral pattern under the OCEAN behavioral definition
- The methodology that may be applied to leverage, integrate, and manage their behaviors to the benefit of the business, whether as a superior, a peer, or a subordinate

Pamoga LLC Case Studies are based on actual issues experienced by real businesses, and provide insight into these issues, their root causes, and the approaches taken to successfully resolve them. Case Studies consist of a narrative section where the business problem is exposed, a theory section where knowledge applicable to the problem is presented, and a real-world solution section where the business activities that solved the problem using that knowledge are discussed. Pamoga LLC offers Case Studies across Strategic Growth Planning, New Product Introduction, and Process Transformation areas, including:

- Portfolio Management
- Business Effectiveness
- Change Management
- Strategic Modeling
- Strategy Implementation
- Operational Modeling
- Cross Functional Execution
- Product Definition
- Customer Alignment

Note that the approaches presented in these Case Studies may or may not provide similar results in your particular situation. Pamoga LLC provides no representation, guarantee, or claim as to their effectiveness, under any condition, nor to the correctness, accuracy, reliability, or completeness of the contents presented. The names of all people, products, and businesses appearing in Case Studies are invented and should not be construed to represent any particular person, product, or business, whether existing or not.
